

book cover design.

by Kaycee Lyne Cua

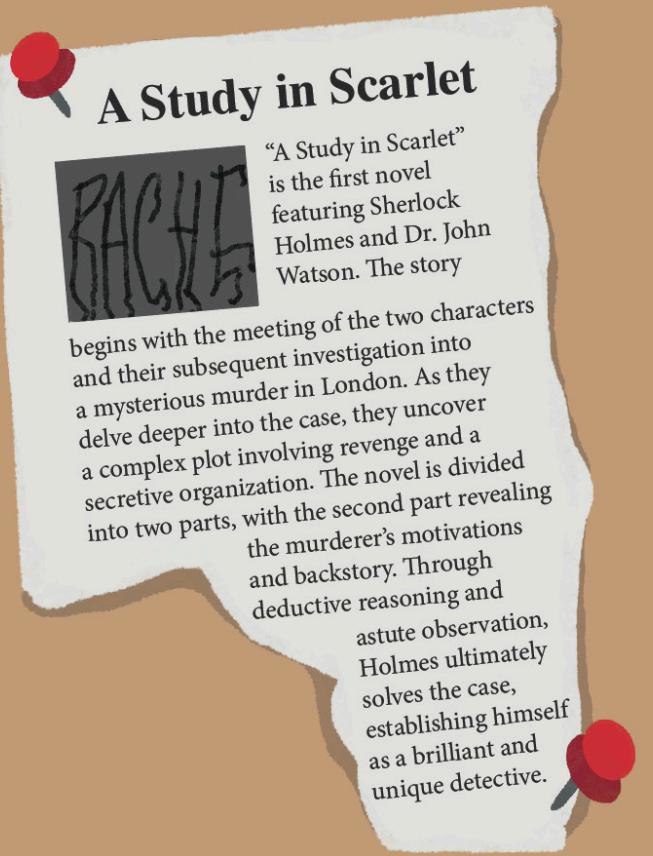

sketches.

book one.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle (1859-1930) was a British writer best known for creating the iconic detective character Sherlock Holmes. Born in Edinburgh, Scotland, Doyle studied medicine and worked as a doctor before turning to writing full-time. He began writing stories featuring Sherlock Holmes in the late 19th century, and the character became immensely popular. Doyle wrote four novels and numerous short stories featuring Holmes, as well as other works of fiction and non-fiction. He was also a passionate advocate for various causes, including spiritualism and the rights of Boer prisoners during the Second Boer War. Despite his success as a writer, Doyle struggled with personal and professional setbacks, including the deaths of family members and criticism of his work. He was knighted in 1902 for his service during the Boer War and continued to write until his death in 1930.

A Study in Scarlet

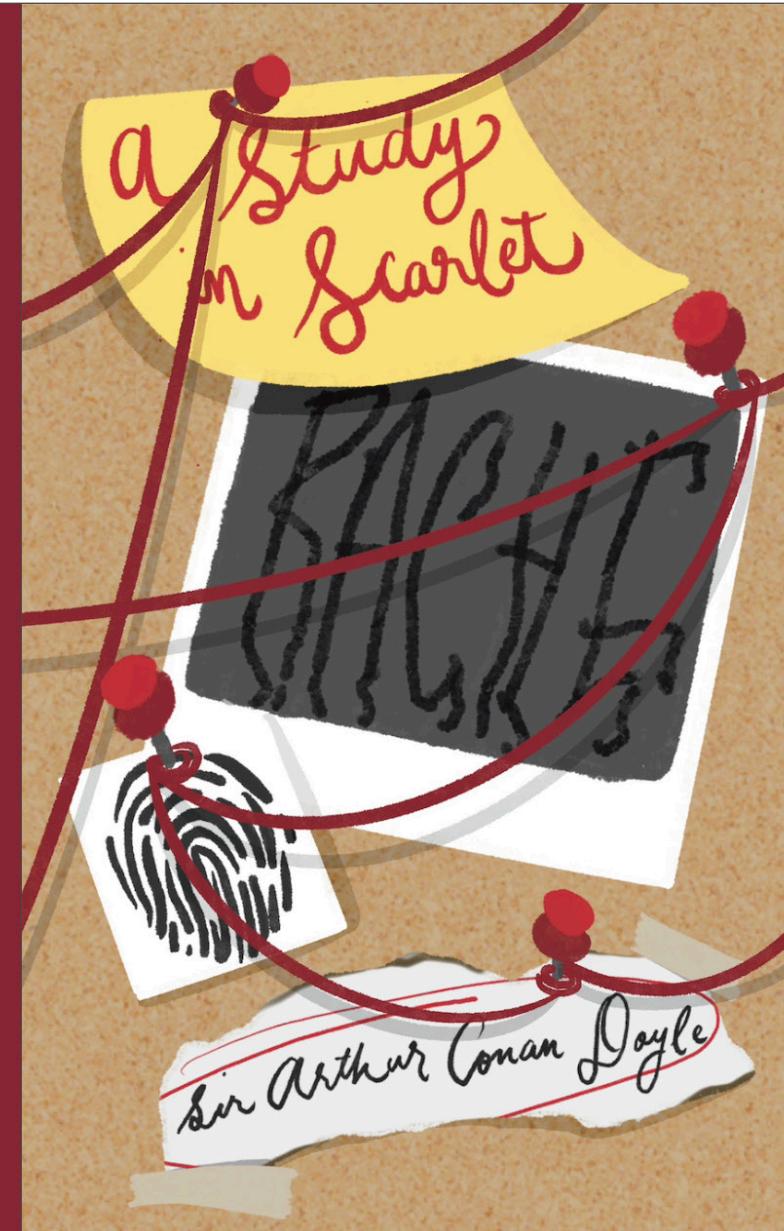

BACHE

"A Study in Scarlet" is the first novel featuring Sherlock Holmes and Dr. John Watson. The story begins with the meeting of the two characters and their subsequent investigation into a mysterious murder in London. As they delve deeper into the case, they uncover a complex plot involving revenge and a secretive organization. The novel is divided into two parts, with the second part revealing the murderer's motivations and backstory. Through deductive reasoning and astute observation, Holmes ultimately solves the case, establishing himself as a brilliant and unique detective.

Barcode: 9 780735 621534

SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

A Study in Scarlet

a Study in Scarlet

BACHE

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle

"To begin at the beginning."

book two.

The image is a collage of book-related elements pinned to a corkboard. On the left, there is a portrait of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and a brief biography. In the center, a torn piece of paper contains the title and a summary of the book. To the right, the full book cover is shown, featuring a yellow title card with a red 'X' over it. A quote from the book is also present on the right side.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle

The Hound of the Baskervilles

"The Hound of the Baskervilles" follows the investigation into the mysterious death of Sir Charles Baskerville, whose family is believed to be cursed by a demonic hound. As Sherlock Holmes and Dr. John Watson investigate, they encounter a host of suspicious characters, including family members, servants, and neighbors. The novel is set in the eerie moors of Devonshire, England, which adds to the sense of danger and intrigue. Through Holmes' deductive reasoning and Watson's narration, the duo ultimately solves the case, unraveling a complex web of greed and deceit.

SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

The Hound of the Baskervilles

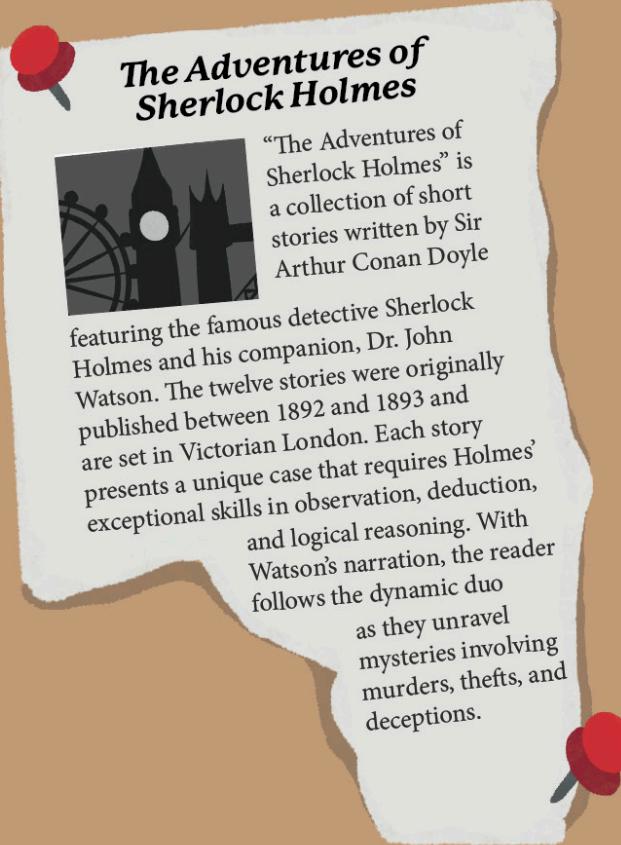

SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

"It is not what we know, but what we can prove."

book three.

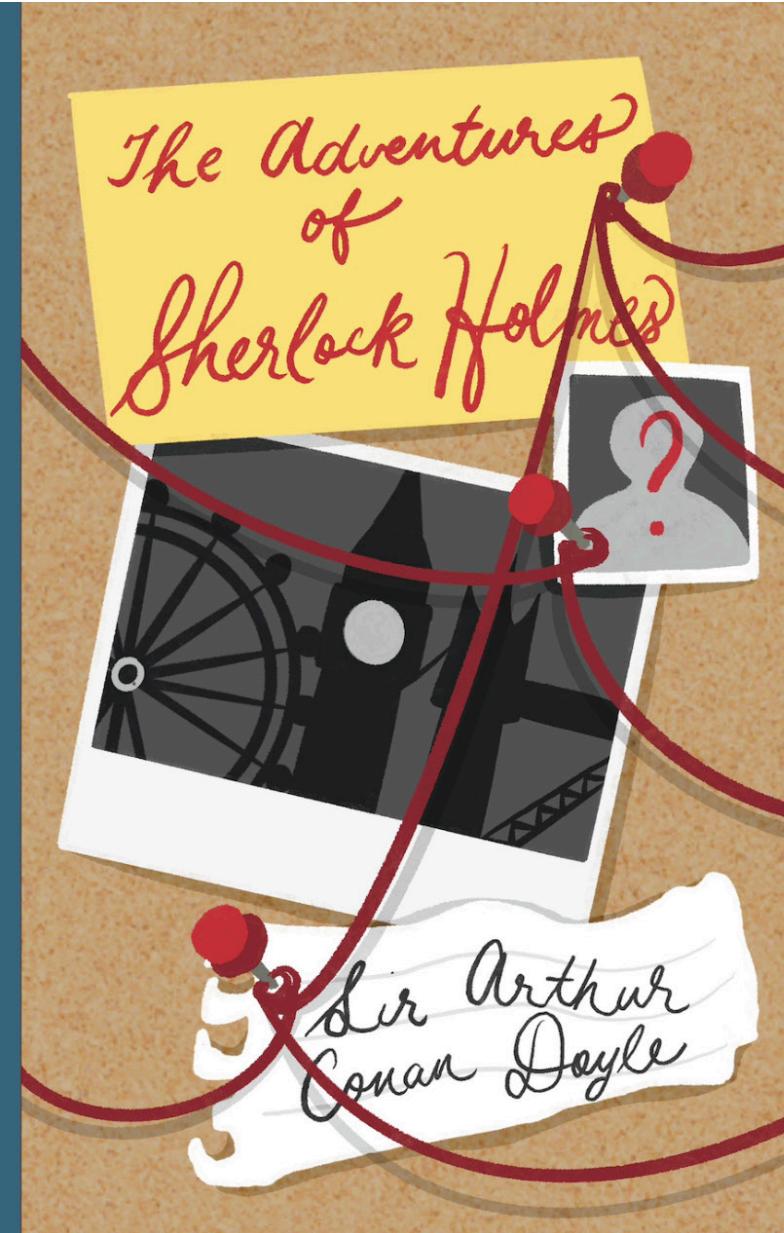

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle (1859-1930) was a British writer best known for creating the iconic detective character Sherlock Holmes. Born in Edinburgh, Scotland, Doyle studied medicine and worked as a doctor before turning to writing full-time. He began writing stories featuring Sherlock Holmes in the late 19th century, and the character became immensely popular. Doyle wrote four novels and numerous short stories featuring Holmes, as well as other works of fiction and non-fiction. He was also a passionate advocate for various causes, including spiritualism and the rights of Boer prisoners during the Second Boer War. Despite his success as a writer, Doyle struggled with personal and professional setbacks, including the deaths of family members and criticism of his work. He was knighted in 1902 for his service during the Boer War and continued to write until his death in 1930.

The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes
SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

"The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" is a collection of short stories written by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, featuring the famous detective Sherlock Holmes and his companion, Dr. John Watson. The twelve stories were originally published between 1892 and 1893 and are set in Victorian London. Each story presents a unique case that requires Holmes' exceptional skills in observation, deduction, and logical reasoning. With Watson's narration, the reader follows the dynamic duo as they unravel mysteries involving murders, thefts, and deceptions.

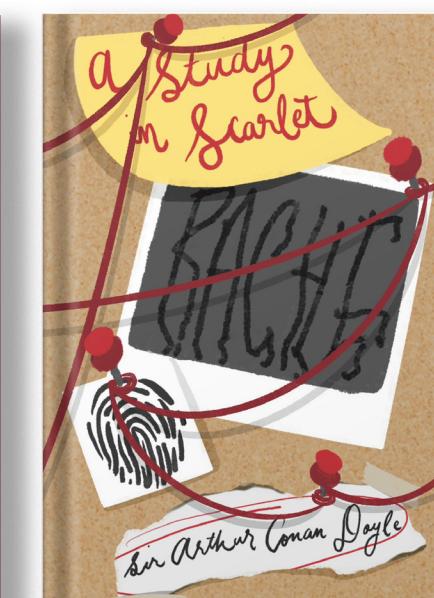

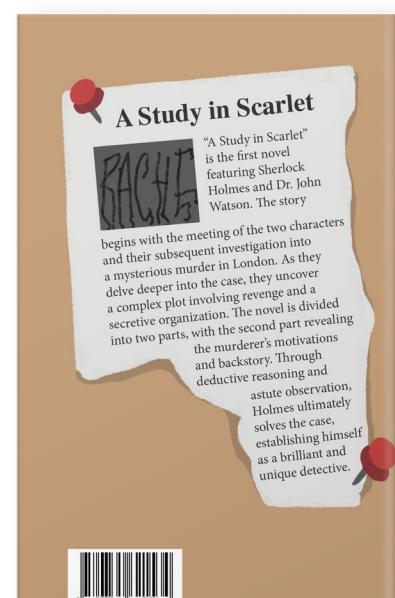

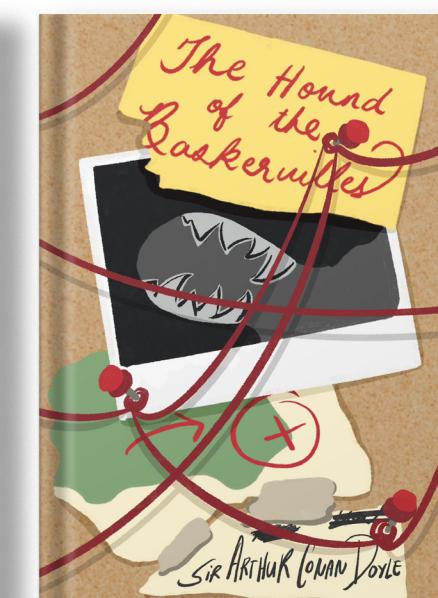

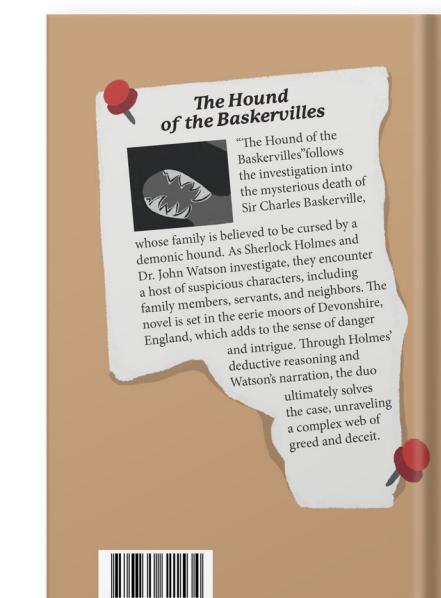

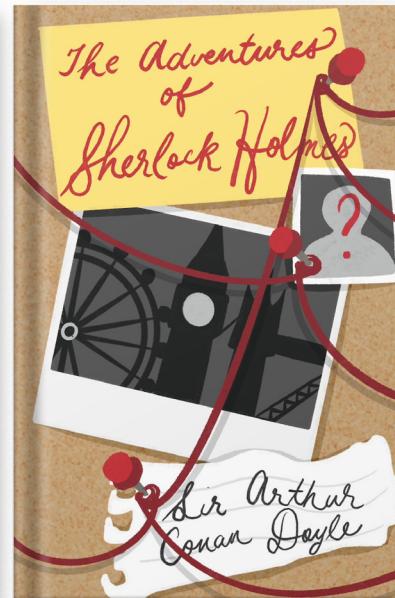

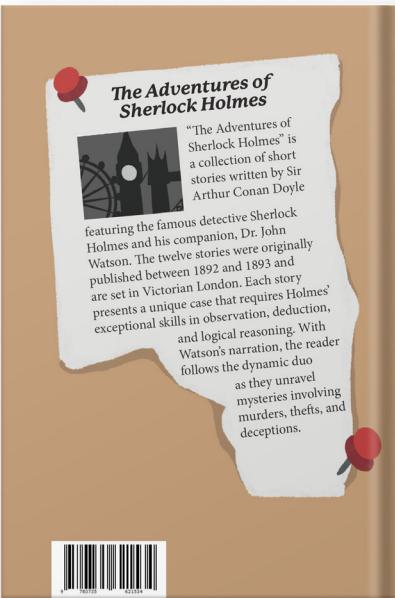

Barcode: 9 780725 621334

The game is afoot.

The illustration shows a corkboard with several pinned items. At the top, a yellow sticky note reads "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes". Below it is a Polaroid-style photo of the London skyline, specifically Big Ben and the Palace of Westminster, with a question mark in the bottom right corner. A white piece of paper pinned below the photo has "Sir Arthur Conan Doyle" written on it. Red pushpins hold the items to the board. The background is a teal color, matching the book cover on the left.

mock ups.

mock ups.

